

'They're gonna put me in the movies' - maybe

'Quiet on the set!' Film crew prepares for a scene

by Joe Banks

Just about everyone has had that age old dream of starring or even acting in a real, honest-to-goodness Hollywood movie.

Some people from the Haliburton area had that dream fulfilled recently, but those who didn't get a chance to take part in the movie but who were present during the filming of 'Summer Camp' got to see and even talk to the kind of people who put movies together.

The movie, however, isn't exactly a Hollywood picture. It's a Canadian feature but it will be released all over the world when it is completed. It is a major Canadian motion picture that is being filmed at a cost of nearly $1 million - a film that is being shot at Camp White Pine right here in Haliburton.

"I think it's exciting as hell," said one Haliburton man who had a small part in the movie.

"It's about time we had some excitement up here," he said, stressing that he wished to remain anonymous on the basis that "I want to shock a couple of friends of mine when the movie comes out. I'll drag them out to see it and when they see me on the big screen, they'll go bananas."

Elmars Sebrins of Haliburton also had a part in the movie, but his part was more major than most. Sebrins played the part of the father of 'Spaz', a skinny, goggle-eyed kid who is one of the main characters in the film. "I hope they didn't pick me because of the resemblance," laughed Sebrins, who is a pharmacist at the Cauldron Pharmacy in Haliburton.

When asked how it felt to

'I'm sorry, but I don't think we'll need you in this scene'

"Quiet on the set!" The phrase rang throughout the yard like a bell and all around me people paused in their conversations. Attention focused on the set.

"Roll sound, camera rolling, action!" The atmosphere was tense as the actors on the set went through their lines. The camera hummed softly. The director, sitting in his blue canvas fold-away chair licked his lips impatiently. He closed his eyes and put his hand up.

"Cut, cut. The lady in the back, yes, you mam. I'm sorry, but I don't think we'll need you in this scene. It's a little too cluttered in the background. What do you think Dan? Dan? Where's Dan?"

A lean man with thick glasses, in his late twenties, came trotting up to the director's chair. It was Dan Goldberg, producer of the movie 'Summer Camp'. The director, Ivan Reitman, nodded his head slowly while he listened to Goldberg's comments. Goldberg completed his conversation with Reitman, shrugged his shoulders and trotted back behind the camera and the lights.

Goldberg saw me standing by myself just outside of the ring of spectators. He was ready to run over to the ring, when again the interruption of "Quiet on the set!" bellowed up from the set, where lights, camera and various props and machinery were gathered around one of the buildings in the camp.

"My dad's going to report you to the better business bureau," came a young voice from the general direction of where the actors were standing. The crew was filming a segment of the film but I was confused. What was going on?

"He's going to sue you for a million dollars! Mom, dad, call the police!" Out of the set a young boy trotted, and halted halfway down the path. "Cut! Let's print that! It was good!" exclaimed director Reitman. He smiled at the cameraman in front of him and looked at his watch.

The whole crew seemed to let out one, massive sigh. The quietness of the area vanished, and crewmen, actors, actresses milled around, packing up machinery grabbing cords, snatching up make-up kits and calling for their tiny pekinese dogs. Huge reflector lights were moved here and there.

A familiar comedic voice interrupted my less

Water quality tested weekly, beaches safe

Despite occasional rumours to the contrary, water at public bathing beaches throughout the county does not present a health hazard for swimmers. Bob MacNaull, senior public health inspector for the Haliburton Kawartha Pine Ridge District Health Unit, says a regular testing program intended to spot potential health hazards from water is carried out at each of the 17 public bathing beaches in Haliburton County.

Inspectors from the unit take water samples from beaches each week throughout the summer. The samples are sent to a laboratory in Peterborough for testing, where total coliform and fecal coliform content of the water is measured. Both are microorganisms found in sewage and septic tank systems, and both are considered indicators of the health hazard a particular body of water presents. A total coliform count of more than 1000 organisms per 100 millilitres of water, or a fecal coliform count of more than 100 organisms per 100 millilitres of water indicates that the water is unsafe for swimming. If counts that high are found in the water samples, the medical officer of Health would order the beach closed to swimmers, and signs would be posted warning of the danger, MacNaull said. However, none of the public beaches in Haliburton County have been ordered closed in recent memory, and water quality at those beaches is considered to be good.

The sampling by the Health Unit provides a statistical picture of water quality throughout the summer months. The ratio of total coliform to fecal coliform and fecal streptococci bacteria in water can indicate whether a source of pollution is from human sewage or from animal or storm water sources.

Water quality in lakes varies throughout the summer, and can even vary from point to point within each lake. Rainfall, lake levels, number of users, and the condition of septic and sewage systems near lakes all influence water quality.

Besides the regular testing of water quality carried out by the Health Unit, other water testing programs are carried out each year in Haliburton County through the Ministry

Special occasion permits could be denied

Monmouth vote seen as critical

Unless 60 percent of the ratepayers in Monmouth Township vote yes to a vote asking if they are in favour of the sale of wine and spirits on licensed premises, Monmouth will lose the right to obtain special occasion permits for fund raising events after December 31. And Clerk Sharon Hunter thinks many ratepayers may not be aware of the significance of the vote.

First inciting of the change in Liquor Board policy that could result in the denial of special occasion permits came in a letter addressed to council dated April 24. "The Liquor Board has directed that municipalities be advised of certain changes in the liquor regulations concerning special occasion permits," the letter said. The changes mean that a municipality must have voted yes to a question of allowing the sale of "beer, wine and spirits for consumption on licensed premises, under a lounge license."

Monmouth is currently "wet" for government liquor stores, Ontario wine stores and Brewer's Retail outlets, for public houses serving beer only, and for hotel dining rooms that serve wine and beer only, council was advised by the Liquor Board. But none of these are sufficient to allow the issuing of special occasion permits under the new regulations.

"Special occasion permits may be issued for the sale of spirits, beer and wine if the municipality has voted affirmatively on the question," the Board advised. "In an area where there is no approval, a permit may be issued only where there is no charge of any kind."

That means that no community organization could obtain a permit if they were going to charge for beer and liquor at an event, the Monmouth clerk said.

The regulations do not affect the LCBO store in Wilberforce, the Wilberforce Legion or the curling club. But all fund raising events would have to be dry if the vote is not 60 percent in favour of the question. And if the needed majority is not obtained; "we cannot have another vote on any question (relating to the sale of alcohol) for three years," Hunter said. "It's really a serious thing."

The turnout was good at an advance poll in the municipality last Saturday, with 71 people casting a vote. All Monmouth ratepayers will get a chance to vote at one of two regular polls next Monday, August 21. The polls will be located in Wilberforce and Tory Hill.

Woman trapped after crash, rescued by police, citizen

A 28 year old woman was trapped beneath the steering wheel of her car after she lost control of it on the roadway, and it rolled down an embankment, Saturday afternoon.

Catherine Beteau of Toronto was southbound on Trappers Trail and slowed down for a curve ahead when the vehicle left the roadway and went down an embankment, rolling over several times. Beteau was trapped in the vehicle under the steering wheel for some time until Sebastian Griesser of Toronto supplied a come-along hoist and assisted Constables Connelly and Chapman in freeing the woman from the wreckage.

Mrs. Beteau was taken to Haliburton Red Cross hospital.

Development strategy unveiled at meeting

Haliburton County came a step closer to getting an official plan last Thursday, when the results of several months of resource appraisal and planning studies were unveiled at a meeting of county council and other municipal officials.

The day long meeting was called to make public the results of a two part study commissioned by county council earlier this year. The study was intended to provide local councils with guidelines to be used for planning. However, an official with the Ontario Ministry of Housing informed the meeting that the information could also be used to form the basis of an official plan for the county.

Dysart et al, which already has its own official plan, was not included in the study area.

A Resource Appraisal Study completed by Gartner Lee and Associates Ltd., outlines various geological features of the county, and indicates areas where resources such as sand, gravel and minerals can be found. It also indicates places within the study area which are suitable for development for housing, and areas which are unsuitable due to geological or environmental factors.

Second part of the study was the formulation of a development strategy by the firm of Totten, Sims, Hubicki.

John McDermott, senior planner with the firm, told the meeting the development strategy had three objectives; the formulation of a policy for the conservation of resources, a shift in emphasis from lot creation through consent (or severance) to lot creation through registered plans of subdivision, and the development of planning guidelines for recreational, commercial, industrial and residential land use.

Details of the development strategy completed by Totten, Sims, Hubicki were not released at the meeting, though the full report has been circulated among the reeves and deputy reeves of the municipalities within the study area. The full report is expected to be released to the press later this week or early next week.

One element in the study, McDermott said, is an emphasis on registered plans of subdivision that will meet standards set down by the Ministry of Housing and other government bodies. Presently, he said, there is a 35 percent turnaround rate for such plans in Haliburton County. He suggested that this figure could be reduced if county wide planning standards were adopted.

Another area the planners looked at was the increase in retirements to the area, a phenomenon which results in the conversion of summer residences to year round residences, and a consequent demand for services for a widely dispersed population. The planning strategy suggests the concept of resort retirement communities should be considered for the county. McDermott said the

Polio vaccinations curtailed, MOH says

The Haliburton, Kawartha, and Pine Ridge District Health Unit has temporarily cancelled its special polio immunization clinics due to a relocation of the vaccine into south-western Ontario, where several cases of Polio have recently been diagnosed.

The immunization program in Haliburton county is now restricted to people 18 years of age and younger until sufficient quantities of the vaccine can be gathered to re-open the clinics.

Dr. D. Mikel, the Medical Officer of Health for the region, does not expect the clinic to be closed long, but those under 18 who have not received vaccination against polio should contact their family doctor, where vaccine is being supplied in small quantities.

"Some of the younger people have not been immunized because they were suspected allergic to the vaccine. But at least 90 percent of the people who are 18 and under are alright at least for another year, since vaccination was issued in the schools," Dr. Mikel said.

The recent outbreak of polio in the London area has so far been restricted to a few persons who belong to a Dutch religious sect, which does not believe in immunization. Dr. Mikel draws no similarity between a similar sect living in Haliburton County and the sect centered around the London area.

"There are no ethnic ties to the disease. All the cases are from contact only and these people obtain polio simply because they reject immunization."

Dr. Mikel believes that compulsory immunization is necessary, but adds that "there is the whole idea of infringing of human rights. It's a delicate and careful issue, but I can't see anything wrong with a law that says immunization is necessary."

"The police don't feel they're infringing on people's rights if they pull over a car that is Charged is 24 year old William Duckworth who was northbound on Hwy. 35 and crossed the centre line into the southbound lane. Frank Robinson, 24 of Weston, pulled to the right to avoid Duckworth's car and struck a guardrail. Duckworth continued northbound and was apprehended later and charged with impaired driving, refusing to supply a breath sample and breach of probation under the Criminal Code of Canada. He was also charged with driving a motor vehicle with liquor readily available, an offence under the Liquor License Act and failing to remain at the scene of an accident, an offence negotiate a curve and left the roadway, last Tuesday night.

Duckworth's car sustained no damages as a result of the accident, while damage to Robinson's car is estimated at $800.

Alan Ward escaped with minor injuries when he was westbound on Old Boshkung Road and left the roadway. The car struck a tree, rolled over and came back to rest on its wheels. Passenger Kevin Hunter, also of Scarborough, sustained minor injuries.

County Council hears development strategy strategy envisions back lot developed communities with water access through a park area rather than strip development with each lot having water frontage. Such communities have been suggested in the study for Kawagama Lake, and for Minden Township.

Rural estates are another element of the development strategy outlined briefly by McDermott. These would be housing developments or mobile home communities built on available land near existing communities with an established service sector. The communities suitable for such development in the planners' view are Carnarvon, Moore Falls, Wilberforce, Gooderham and Ingoldsby, while a modest growth rate is also predicted for the village of Minden.

The next stage in the formulation of the development strategy is the drafting of a local planning policy statement. The planners will meet with each municipal council in the study area to identify local planning concerns. The meetings are expected to get underway this week.

Dysart et al reeve Murray Fearrey told the meeting that the studies "haven't gone far enough", unless county council pursues the idea of turning the studies into an official plan, something council has been reluctant to do since the matter of official plans first came up in the late 60's and early 70's.

Shane Kennedy, an official with the Ministry of Housing said the studies could be used to form the core of a basic official plan if the county wished.

Though the study presented Thursday does not consider lake shore development, Kennedy said council would only have to indicate its intention to complete such a study in the future for the basic official plan to be approved without a lake shore study.

McDermott told the meeting that a planning strategy document has a definite advantage over an official plan in that the strategy can be modified easily, and is an expression of local interests. "Right now, I see no reason to move toward an official plan," he said.

Kennedy said he didn't think it would take any longer to turn the studies into an official plan than it would to complete them as a development strategy document. "The decision," he said, "could be made at a later stage however, after the local concerns are documented."

Details of the Totten, Sims, Hubicki report will be published as soon as they are made available.

Area breakins reported

A cottage was broken into at Furnace Falls last Monday night, and a quantity of money was taken.

Richard Broughton of Whitby, owner of the cottage, told police that approximately $120 in cash was taken. Damage to the cottage amounted to $15.

A store in Carnarvon was robbed of $700 in cash during the evening of Saturday, August 5.

Thomas Francis, the owner of Elliot's store, phoned police on August 7 to inform them of the break-in. Damage to the rear door of the store is estimated as minor.

A break and enter also occurred at a cottage on Brady Lake last Monday night.

Owner of the cottage, Larry Bowie, told police that $65 in cash was missing.

An outboard motor worth an estimated $700 was taken from a Hawk Lake cottage Friday night.

The victim, Raymond St. Pierre of Toronto, said the motor was taken sometime during the night.

Water quality tested of the Environment. Cottage Associations take part in the testing program, volunteering to monitor water quality on a weekly basis. Two tests are carried out. A measurement of the "chlorophyll A" content of a water sample indicates the amount of suspended algae present in the water. A "Secchi disc" is also used to measure the clarity of the water. These two tests, when carried out on a weekly basis, indicate the whether or not the quality of water in the lake is deteriorating over a span of years. If changes in quality are taking place, steps can be taken to uncover a source of pollution and to reverse the trend toward deterioration.

Bob MacNaull says the results of the monitoring by the Health Unit and by the Ministry of the Environment are available from the Haliburton office of the Health Unit. People who want information about the quality of water at any of the public beaches, or about their particular lake, can call the Health Unit on any week day.

than quiet observation of the scene. "Ohhhh, just an amazing party. Somebody spilt some lemon gin all over the floor and ...hey, have you seen this? I can't get over it. It's just too much ..."

I looked over at the area where the voice was coming from and noticed a very strange looking person wearing a huge, curly black wig. Upon his wrist, I noticed an alarm clock tied on with string. He was chatting to two young ladies.

I suddenly realized that I knew that face, and a strange thrill rushed up inside me. It was Bill Murray, a person I had seen numerous times on NBC's Saturday Night Live.

"Pizza face!" I exclaimed, unaware of what I had said. His nickname in an episode on the show was pizza face. It was the role I had remembered him most from.

Murray looked over at me, momentarily taking his attention off the women. I panicked.

"Yeh, that's right. Pizza-face," he said half disgusted. It appeared I had hit a soft-spot. Perhaps Murray didn't like that role or something, I thought.

I had an urge to compliment Murray on his great humour as a form of apology, but his attention turned immediately back to the women.

"He's crazy, isn't he?" said a voice on my left. It was Goldberg, and he finally had the time to leave the crew.

"Is that part of his regular costume?" I queried. "No," chuckled Goldberg, "he's just clowning around."

Just then, a man carrying a huge lamp frame walked between Goldberg and me.

I decided to follow the crew up the hill to where the next scene was being filmed. Goldberg followed, and behind him came Bill Murray and his friends.

At the top of the hill, I paused and looked at the next area in which they were filming. The crew was setting everything up unbelievably fast, and I was taken aback at the precision and speed at which they were doing it.

Everything, right down to the last bolt, had an exact location or function to play; there was a place for everything, and everything was in its place.

I then took notice of the extras sitting around the set. They had been unbelievably quiet during filming, and I wondered what they were going to do.

"Somebody told me that you have to sit around all day sometimes just to wait for your scene to come up. And when it does, you're usually only on the screen for about two seconds," said an elderly lady beside me who was to be one of the local 'extras' to be used in the movie.

It was true. Several people had been sitting around the set since the early morning waiting to get a part, but none seemed to be too concerned. "It's all part of the game, I guess," the lady added.

Just then, the second A.D. (Assistant Director) yelled out around the set to the extras.

"Has anyone not been in yet? Who hasn't been in yet? We need a couple and some ladies."

No one put their hands up, and it appeared as though the people who weren't patiently reading their books or fidgeting nervously were actually shy to volunteer. Finally, some people were picked by the second A.D. and the scene was prepared.

When a movie is made, the director knows exactly what he will want from each scene even before the crew arrives on location. Consequently, minute details in lighting, the type of people in the scene and other factors are of utmost importance when filming.

Frustrated nerves can be the result, but a director has a certain way of handling the situation if things do not go quite right.

Reitman, appeared to have an uncanny ability to deal with nervous or shy 'extras.' His voice changed to a softer tone when speaking to these people and he smiled at them.

"Now that was good, but if you can just turn your head a little more to the left, you'd be absolutely fantastic. That's right, good."

Then his voice changed again into his director's mode.

'They may put me in the movies'

be in a 'real' movie, Sebrins admitted that "it's boring waiting for your scene, but the people are interesting. I'm impressed with the whole thing. It's really something how the director handles everything. Some of the crew are really impressed, too, with the director."

Sebrins said he was taken aback at how the crew ran things "so smoothly and worked so well together. It's really something to watch."

Sebrins and scores of other local talent were on location this past week to fill the part of 'extras' (people who walk by the camera in the background or who have minor foreground roles such as Sebrins) and so far, says producer Dan Goldberg,

"they're doing absolutely fantastic."

"They've been really cooperative and very helpful to us. We've had no problems with anyone - it's been quite incredible," said Goldberg.

Often, he says, when a fairly large film crew such as the one filming at Camp White Pine moves into a new area, "you sometimes get problems, but not very often. Here there's no tension between the crew or the people, which puts the crew at ease quite a bit."

Goldberg attributes the success of the locals in the first week of filming to the moods and spirit of everyone involved in the movie.

"The crew we have is very easy going and energetic bunch, and that helps the local people quite a bit. They feel more relaxed, too, and it makes for a more comfortable atmosphere."

The movie itself will have a lasting effect on all the local people who become involved in the picture, Goldberg feels, and that effect "will certainly be something to remember. It's not everybody who gets to appear in a motion picture, and when something like this comes along - well, the impression made is an important moment in their lives."

Goldberg ensured that the stars of the picture arrived one week prior to filming "to get the feeling" of the community. After staying in Toronto or New York for some time, Goldberg thinks that the actors should spend the first week "getting to know each other and getting used to the calm life up here."

Bill Murray, star of the film and one of the members of the Not Quite Ready For Prime Time Players on the immensely popular NBC comedy show Saturday Night Live, was no less than wacky on the set during the filming. When asked how he liked Haliburton, Murray grinned and admitted, "It's a reeeeel party up here. The housewives are a real gas."

Most of the crew, however, were somewhat more serious in their opinions of the area. Comments of "it's beautiful - a fantastic place" or "take my job. I want to live here" could be heard if members of the crew were asked their opinions.

But even though on the surface, all is peaceful and exciting on the movie set, and everyone involved in the production seemingly co-exists with each other and the members of the camp, a crewman with the company sees the darker side of the business of making a movie.

"O.K. everybody, let's do it right this time! Sally, get me a coffee please? Quiet on the set. Everybody ready? O.K., sound, roll film ...action!"

The scene was repeated four times that day, and no one in the crew seemed to mind when a particular part had to be filmed again and again. I became bored at times, and often tired of watching a scene repeated. Once, I decided to sit down, and it was a fatal mistake.

Toward the end of the day's filming, I decided to have a seat on the tire of one of the dolly trucks sitting idly near the shooting. I did so, and seconds after, a sudden crash rattled the dolly truck and nearly made me fall off. I looked behind me, and saw a crewman picking up a large bar he had dropped off the truck.

"Stay off the equipment," came a voice from the opposite direction. I looked up and yet another crewman was covering his eyes.

"Don't ever touch or even come close to any of this equipment. It's union stuff, and you don't mess around with the union," he warned.

The union apparently is immensely powerful in the movie industry and I made sure I didn't approach another piece of machinery again. Idle or not, you just don't mess around with the union. It was a lesson one learned the hard way.

But the rest of the day went along extremely well. I had an opportunity to see what the people in the industry were really like, face to face, and to chat to some of them.

The people involved in movies are almost identical to what you think they'd be like. The actresses are very sophisticated, sexy, and never have much to say to anyone, the make-up lady has a little dog running around her, and the crew is a friendly, congenial bunch who like to have lots of fun when they're not working.

In a sense, the people employed in the movie industry see the job they are doing as a hobby.

"But even as a hobby, it can sometimes be a real hectic business to work in," admitted one of the director's assistants.

"But I wouldn't give up the business for anything. Just look at the people you have to work with."

The crewman wished to remain anonymous, since "The union is nothing to mess around with," he said, referring to the film-maker's union, of which he is not a member.

"They're (union members on the set) a temperamental bunch, and you have to watch your step with them, or it could mean trouble."

"Most of the people you work with take their jobs fantastically seriously which is a good thing, because then you know that the part you played in the construction of the picture will look even better because of that extra involvement in the production."

"It's a helluva business to be in - but what a business!" he said.

Bill Murray, the star of "Summer Camp", enjoys a breather between takes with some young 'extras' on the set. Murray is one of the "Not-Quite-Ready-For-Prime-Time-Players" on the NBC-TV show Saturday Night Live.

Some local 'extras' patiently wait their turn on the set. "I think it's exciting as hell", said one local man who managed to get a minor role in the film.

Some came just to watch

Make it official

For the past several months, studies have been going on across Haliburton County, studies commissioned by county council and intended to provide them with information essential to long term land use planning. At a meeting last Thursday, the results of those studies were presented to county council and to councillors from a number of area municipalities. Two points emerged clearly from the meeting. The first is that planning decisions affecting Haliburton County must be carefully and wisely made, because the potential for damage to the natural and social environment from bad planning decisions is great. The second is that planning must be considered on a county wide basis, and planning decisions must not be left up to individual townships and municipalities.

The studies have been two part. A resource appraisal study outlines the various geological features of the area, and identifies sensitive areas where development could cause environmental problems. The study also identifies lands that are most suitable for development. A second study outlines a basic planning strategy for the county, suggesting the kind of development that should take place, and providing projections about economic growth and population distribution. Taken together, the studies provide the basic information needed for the development of an official plan. County council, however, has not yet indicated that it is in favour of turning the studies into an official plan. The intention at the moment is to use them as suggested guidelines which could be considered by municipal councils when they make planning decisions. If the studies are left at that stage, they will have little effect.

Planning decisions are vital to the future of the county. While Haliburton has not yet been subjected to the pressure for growth and housing development that many other areas of the province have experienced, there is nevertheless a constant demand for shoreline development, and for severances of lots from existing larger properties.

County council has been reluctant to move in the direction of an official plan, at least partly because of the traditional desire of municipal councils to retain their autonomy. And there is no question that councils across the county have acted in what they have deemed to be the best interests of their ratepayers whenever planning decisions have been made. But the fact remains that planning is too complex an area to be left up to individual councils.

County council has taken a step in the right direction in commissioning the studies presented last Thursday, and more work will be needed before county wide planning strategy can be completed. But that strategy will not be as effective as it could be if it is left as a suggestion rather than as an official plan to which all municipalities in the county would be bound to adhere.

An official from the Ministry of Housing, the body which must give approval to official plans before they are adopted, has indicated that the studies completed so far could be turned into an official plan without major difficulties. County council should be willing to go that extra step and push for the adoption of an official plan for Haliburton County.

Keep it clean

Information from the Haliburton office of the Haliburton, Kawartha Pine Ridge District Health Unit indicates that the quality of water at bathing beaches throughout the County is generally high, and that there is no health hazard to swimmers at any of those beaches. The information is reassuring, because many area residents have expressed concern about the possibility of swimmers becoming ill from lake water.

Water quality should be of vital concern to everyone. Legislation enforced by the Ministry of the Environment and the Ministry of Natural Resources ensures that lake pollution from sewage systems and septic tanks is kept to a minimum. But there are many other sources of pollution that can only be controlled by individuals. And while most people are aware of the importance of water quality, and strive to disturb the lake environment as little as possible, there are nevertheless many thoughtless people who continue to pollute water as if it had a limitless capacity to tolerate abuse.

Careless boaters spill gasoline and oil into the water. Campers, picnickers and fishermen toss refuse into the lakes. Cottagers and swimmers wash their hair in lakes, putting detergents into the water. And so it goes.

It all comes down to this. We can have our lakes for the future and still enjoy them today if we are careful. Or we can abuse them today and pass the consequences on to future generations.

Each of us has a responsibility to protect water-quality, and to see that those around us do so as well. It's only common sense.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

As an active participant in building one of the winning floats, I would like to bring to your attention, my disappointment in the overall coverage of the carnival parade. I am sure you must agree that it is more interesting to see a photo of one of the many beautiful floats, than it is to see a photo of a merry-go-round. My opinion is that most of the participants would be encouraged to participate again, if your newspaper had paid more attention to the many, many hours that the men, women and children put into their floats.

This is one of Haliburton's largest events and to assure future interests of tourists, local people and businesses, your newspaper is a valuable asset to promote this.

To the Editor:

The recent article concerning Ontario Hydro's spray program not only contained erroneous information but contradicted itself as well. The article began by saying that the use of herbicidal sprays presented no danger to human or animal life. Mr. Richmond of Ontario Hydro was so brass as to say that "Everyone feels that it's a safe chemical." He goes on to say that "...we are told...if people picked the berries immediately after the spraying, there wouldn't be any detrimental effect." Why then, as mentioned in the same article, did the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency warn against the "contamination" of areas that humans would contact?

The National Research Council's subcommittee on pesticides is pushing for extensive monitoring of herbicidal sprays. They are especially concerned about a toxic compound TCCD found in the 245T spray being used locally. This compound has been proven to cause mutations, liver damage and even death in laboratory animals. In light of this, Mr. Richmond's defense of herbicidal sprays reads like a brochure from Hydro's chemical supplier.

Mr. Richmond can count me out of his "Everyone feels it's a safe chemical." Further, I feel that this abuse of nature and our right to a healthy environment must stop. We should join our neighbours in Muskoka Lakes and outlaw the use of sprays in our community.

Respectfully yours,
Paul Dillon

To the Editor:

I read with interest the news item on page two of your August 9, 1978 edition under the headline "Power was Cut Off, Store Owner is Angry." The clear implication left was that Minden area of Ontario Hydro treats its customers in a "shabby way".

Honest, or mature and factual criticism is welcomed, and when received will be carefully investigated, and the situation corrected if necessary. A telephone call to this office would have provided your reporter with all the information contained herein.

First, the conditions of service as agreed upon between Ontario Hydro and the customer clearly indicate that we do not guarantee uninterrupted service, and secondly the customer agrees to allow Ontario Hydro to inspect, repair and replace any of their equipment at all reasonable hours. Ontario

Humans everywhere, it seems, feel a compulsion to leave their mark in the world. There are some people who strive to leave that mark through achievement, and there are others who leave it in less significant ways, often at the expense of others. There is hardly a rock cut anywhere, for instance, that isn't defaced with the handiwork of some thoughtless fool with a paint spray can. And there's hardly a washroom on the face of the earth that isn't festooned with the off colour verse of some frustrated and talentless poet. People have come to accept graffiti as an inevitable consequence of human insecurity, and there are even those who have attempted to convince us that graffiti is a minor art form, like the scratchings of prehistoric hunters on cave walls.

The fact is however, that graffiti is nothing less than a form of vandalism. And the truth is that it isn't confined to rock cuts and washroom walls. In fact, graffiti can be found wherever people have been.

This past weekend, I had an opportunity to see just how pervasive is man's desire to leave his mark in the world. And while I have often been annoyed at paint on rock cuts, I have passed it off with a feeling more of pity for the painter than of scorn for his destructiveness. This weekend, however, it was scorn, not pity, that I felt.

I went scuba diving on the wrecks of Georgian Bay, an experience that is as frightening as it is thrilling. The first two wrecks we dove to were steel ships, twisted, broken and rusting. They lay scattered over a wide area of the bottom, and they were unmarked by human hands, not because the ships were inviolate, but rather because steel is resistant to the scratching of diver's knives.

Not so the third ship we dove on however. It was a wooden hulled schooner that sank in forty feet of water more than 100 years ago. And it was largely intact, though the deck had fallen in and the masts have long since disappeared in the sand. The hand hewn ribs of the ship were something to behold. Even after a hundred years beneath the water, the wood is still strong and tightly held together. You'd think that those who are lucky enough to be able to visit that ship would respect it's rest, and the men, so long dead, who built it. You'd think too, that divers would have the sense to leave it untouched for others to enjoy. Human nature, alas, won't allow it. The sides of the ship were covered with the names of those who had been

You might say that I'm from the old school and not with it, but there are some things that I just can't seem to understand. I really enjoy practically every type of music with just one exception and that is I just can't stand Rock and Roll. It could be possible that I'm not with the Pepsi generation but in my opinion Rock and Roll music if you want to call it that is nothing but a bunch of noise. You can call me a square but for sheer listening pleasure give me Lawrence Welk, the Guy Lombardo Orchestra, a good jazz or dixieland band and I am even a Country and Western fan. For Rock and Roll, you can have it. I must admit that I am in the minority on this issue and that the young people in particular really dig this Rock and Roll. I was really surprised and shocked when I heard that only 80 people were on hand at the Minden Arena on Saturday evening August 5th to hear Jim McHarg and his Midnight Special, Toronto's most versatile seven piece orchestra direct from the New Orleans Pavilion at Caravan '78. This outstanding musical group who play jazz and dixieland music were superb from the comments I heard from those who attended. I was sorry that I was unable to attend and I know that it must have been very discouraging to the Rotary Club of Minden who sponsored this musical evening. But just imagine this, on Sunday night August 6th over 1100 mainly teen agers packed the Minden Arena to hear "Liverpool" a Rock and Roll group.

It's really a pleasure to drive around Haliburton these days since the roads in the village have all been repaved and it's smooth sailing ahead. It's really made quite an improvement.

On Saturday, August 5th, Mr. Pat Benoliel of Toronto introduced himself to Jerry Pillsworth, owner of Stedmans store in Minden, with the pleasant news that his Wintario Ticket purchased at the store was a big $10,000. winner in a recent Wintario draw. Mr. Benoliel from Toronto has a cottage on Koshlong lake. This totals three big winners that have purchased winning tickets at Stedmans store in Minden in the past two years. All three of them being $10,000 winners.

Members of the executive of the Victoria-Haliburton Federal Progressive Conservative Association are busy making arrangements for the Annual Beef Barbecue and Dance to be held on Saturday, August 19th, once again taking place at the Kinmount Fair Grounds. A social hour at 6:00 p.m. precedes the 7:00 p.m. dinner. President Monty Robson recalls how quickly and how well the several hundred who attended last year were served and how the whole event was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Robson also points out the interesting fact that the ticket price has been kept at five dollars even though costs have risen. A number of members of the House of Commons, friends and colleagues of Bill Scott, M.P. will be attending. After dinner greetings will be extended by the visiting parliamentarians. The good music of the Abernethy Orchestra mixed with the enthusiasm of the large crowd, according to the President, assure that the dance will be a very enjoyable part of the event. Based on the increasing attendance for a number of years, it seems reasonable to assume that the people enjoy the pleasant mixture of good food, good entertainment, spiced with a little politics.

When we talk of recreation and something for the young people to do in Haliburton many things have to be taken into consideration. One thing that we do know is that we have the facilities here. The problem seems to be that many of these facilities are not being put to good use. It's fine to sit back and say that we have these facilities here, but let's look at a few of the facts. How can the young people get involved in various activities when there is no supervision? If we have ball diamonds for ball teams, or dances, or what have you, who is going to take the time to organize these events so that the young people can participate in them? Maybe it's come to the time that we need a recreation director.

Ronald Wrightman Realty in Minden have purchased a Community Service Van which can be used by non profit organizations in the County free of charge. Ron says that he even supplies the gas that there is only one stipulation, the driver must be 25 years of age or over. The van is in demand and you would be wise to book it in advance of the event that you would like to use it for.

It always makes us sick when we think of the public apathy that we are sometimes faced with in small communities. A friend of mine was in the office recently and we were discussing this problem. He pointed out to me that the difference between ignorance and apathy is I don't know and I don't care. Just think about it for a moment, it's very true.

Well all of the big summer events are just about over but there is one thing that we can look forward to and that is the Kinmount Fair which is scheduled for September 1, 2 and 3. This is always an outstanding affair and one that you won't want to miss.

A large number of people from all over the county as well as many hundreds of visitors were on hand in Minden over the weekend for the 114th Haliburton County Fair. Everyone reported having a real good time at the fair.

The Canadian National Exhibition is now on in the city of Toronto. For years now people have been arguing the point about what effect the C.N.E. has on the local tourist trade here in the Highlands of Haliburton. Well whether we like it or not it is my opinion that it does hurt the tourist industry here. It seems that after the big Exhibition gets underway you can certainly notice a drop off in business locally. If it didn't have an adverse effect on it why then a few years ago did the tourist industry try to get the C.N.E. to start at a later date.

From the Chamber

by Bob Stinson

This summer the Chamber arranged, under an Experience '78 Program to have Kathy Richardson and Louis Fleming work in the Haliburton and Minden business areas compiling a very comprehensive survey. The gathering of information is almost complete and they will shortly be sitting down to compile the results into a full report. It is hoped that the report on each village will form the basis for a business improvement area program. The Ministry of Housing this week released new guidelines which were based in large part on input provided from the Ontario Chamber of Commerce. One of the main improvements sought by the Chamber was provincial assistance in funding individual projects. The province will now provide loans for the implementation of BIA programs to a maximum amount of $150,000 per municipality. These funds are available for the improvement and beautification of municipally owned lands, buildings and structures within the business improvement area, and for the provision of the municipally owned and operated parking areas. The total provincial recovery would be 110% of the provincial loan over a maximum of a 10 year period.

The municipality must have a business improvement area program in effect in order to apply for the above mentioned funds. There are presently 78 active business improvement areas in Ontario, and many others like ourselves who are in the organizational stages. Let us hope we can get our program organized and implemented while funds are still available for this program.

The Ontario Chamber of Commerce is co-sponsoring a three day seminar in Toronto at the end of November on the above topic, anyone interested in further information on this seminar is invited to contact the Chamber office in Minden at 286-1760.

County Fair Falls

The County Fair, which has been on a successful rebuilding program over the last few years, showed some signs of slipping again this past weekend. This fair is on the verge of becoming one of the most important annual events in the County, and with full county support it can certainly obtain that goal. The Zone Chairman observed that the fairgrounds at Minden were probably the most ideal she had seen, but are drastically under utilized. Considering how scattered our population is in Haliburton County we must realize it will take a concerted effort by all of our communities to make the Haliburton Highlands County Fair the highlight of the year. Let's all pull together.

The Next Action is in Wilberforce

Monmouth municipality is becoming famous for its ingenuity and enthusiasm in putting on worthwhile events. They will really be making their mark on the map on August 31st when the Wintario draw will be held at Monmouth arena in Wilberforce.

Following hot on the heels of that extravaganza will be the Wilberforce Rockhound Fair '78 on September 2nd, 3rd and 4th. Capitalizing on the abundance of rocks and gems in the area both the Lloyd Watson Memorial Hall and the Monmouth Arena will be utilized for various exhibitions, swap shops, displays and demonstrations throughout the weekend. Whether you are a rockhound or just curious, you're welcome to join in the fun and don't miss the big dance on Saturday night complete with a live band.

Kingscote Lake Lodge Refurbished

It's now known as Edward's Kingscote Lake Lodge and is owned and operated by Mr. & Mrs. W. E. Calder. For the last number of years this colourful lodge has been falling into a sad state of disrepair but it has now been rescued in the nick of time by Mr. & Mrs. Calder. The improvements they have accomplished since purchasing this property last fall are unbelievable and have to be seen to be appreciated. Kingscote Lake is located inside Algonquin Park just west of Elephant Lake and is one of the few commercial properties that is still privately owned inside the boundaries of the park. It is a truly unique setting and it would have been truly sad to lose it as an attraction to the Highlands. We welcome Mr. & Mrs. Calder to our business community and sincerely hope you will also.

Who is the Mysterious Mr. Wharry

The Lake Kashagawigamog Tourist Association has been attempting to communicate with the correct government department to ask that the channel going into Head Lake at Haliburton be cleared and marked. Some letters in this regard have been written to the Ministry of Transportation & Communications and the Ministry of Natural Resources on Lake Kashagawigamog letterhead and signed by Mr. J. Douglas Wharry. These ministries replied to the association that it was in fact a Federal matter, and passed along the appropriate addresses. The curious thing is that no one in the Lake Kashagawigamog Tourist Association is aware of who Mr. Wharry is or how he happens to be using their stationery. The gentleman has apparently done them no harm, and in fact seems to have their best interest at heart but you certainly can't blame them for wondering who he is. So do we.

Bill Smiley

A few years ago, I picked up a paperback novel entitled, I think, The Last of the Crazy People, written by one Timothy Findley. As usual, I turned to the back cover to find out something about the author. There was nothing, and I, a voracious reader and a teacher of literature, had never heard of him.

I began reading the novel, and soon thought, "Oh boy, this is an excellent writer. Who the heck is he?" And that was the end of my curiosity.

This year, I read in the paper that one Timothy Findley had won the Governor-General's Award for a novel called The Wars. That suggested he must be a Canadian writer. Never heard of him, but remembered the name and the other novel I'd thought so good.

Since, I've read The Wars. It is powerful, sensitive, beautifully structured. Probably the best novel that has won the G-G's A. Some of the other winners were sleaze.

Recently, Findley wrote a newspaper article in which he pointed out the appalling lack of ability among Canadian critics. I don't blame him. He was right on. With a few exceptions, I find our critics to be narrow-minded, nit-picking people who approach anything new with pre-conceived prejudices only exceeded by their desire to reveal how clever and witty they themselves are.

But the point that interested me most in his article was its concluding one. He stated, unequivocally, that we are in the midst of Canada's golden age of writing, and suggested it was a pity that no one would say this until fifty or a hundred years from now.

Well, he's wrong. This one small voice in the desert of Canadian critics agrees with him about 94 per cent. Not quite golden. There's some dross among the glitter. But absolutely high-grade ore, with the occasional diamond popping up, and a lot of silver threads among the gold. Fair enough?

What is a golden age? In writing, it's a time when a rich vein of talent is discovered.

I was disgusted and angry when I saw those names, but perhaps that was the wrong reaction. Maybe I should just have shrugged my shoulders and felt sorry for those people who just had to leave their names behind.

There's some consolation however, in knowing that the attempt was futile. Eventually, the water will win out, and the wood will rot, taking the names with it. It's what the graffiti makers deserve.

Vaccinations

travelling to fast. I think immunization should be compulsory because it is a necessary part of living," Dr. Mikel said.

Dr. Mikel says that he recently received a letter from Queen's Park telling him that he will be advised when enough vaccine has been accumulated to re-open the polio clinics in Haliburton and surrounding counties.

"As soon as we have enough vaccine, we'll reopen. But we don't want a clinic to be half supplied and then have to be closed down again. We want to make sure that we have a good supply first," he said.

Dr. Mikel said he expects the majority of the clinics will become operational again within two weeks, but "because there can't be that many left to be immunized in London, and plus the fact that vaccine is being produced fairly rapidly, some clinics could reopen next week."

Dr. Mikel said anyone who is due for a booster now could wait for one more year before the shot would become necessary, but once the vaccinations are "in full swing," no one should have to wait.

Report from Queens Park

by MPP John Eakins

We were, of course, all pleased to learn this week that Ontario has been selected as the site for a new Ford Motor Company engine plant, which will employ 2,600 people and produce in excess of $60 million in taxes each year.

You will remember that a special debate took place in the Legislature on the last day of the session. The Minister of Industry and Tourism had informed us of the negotiations which had been taking place with respect to location of this new $535 million plant. Ford had been offered considerable financial incentive to locate the facility in the U.S. and the Canadian Government had recommended that an incentive be offered to persuade the company to locate in this country - an incentive to be financed jointly by the Federal Government and the Government of Ontario.

The Ford Motor Company had originally wanted $30 million and the Federal Government had expressed a willingness to pay three-quarters of that cost, provided the Government of Ontario paid one-quarter. While the Ontario Government was deciding how to proceed, the Federal Government offered the entire $30-million itself. However, the Ford Company increased the required amount to $75 million, and the Federal Government subsequently proposed that Ontario and Ottawa pay $37.5 million each.

Announcing the location of the plant in Ontario, the Premier indicated that this $75 million figure had, during discussions between Federal, Provincial and Ford officials, been modified to $68 million - the figure which was eventually offered and accepted. Of this total, the Federal Government had agreed to contribute $40 million and the Ontario Government the remaining $28 million, equivalent to approximately a 60-40 agreement.

While the establishment of this new facility will create some 2,600 new jobs directly when it becomes fully operational, it is also estimated that there will be a further 2,600 jobs in feeder industries. The annual payroll in the Ford plant will be approximately $65 million, with a similar amount generated in the feeder companies. The construction industry will benefit from the 18-24 months construction phase.

In making the decision to locate in Ontario, Ford Motor Company chose to ignore powerful U.S. protests. Senior American officials also protested to the Canadian Government about this country's cash incentives offered to obtain more auto industry jobs. The officials were in Ottawa for discussions on the subject of the 13-year-old Auto Pact which, with exceptions, provides for free trade in parts and vehicles between Canada and the United States. Canada suffered a $1-billion trade deficit on the arrangement last year, and former Deputy Finance Minister Simon Reisman, who led the team which negotiated the Auto Pact, has been appointed to review it.

There has, as you know, been considerable discussion about the Auto Pact recently. This is because the industry is expected to experience investment of an estimated $60-billion over the next decade. Decisions now being taken will affect the manner in which this investment will be divided between the two countries.

During the last day debate in the Legislature, Liberal Leader Stuart Smith argued that Ontario should take the necessary action to secure location of the Ford plant here, even though this would be, in effect, submitting to "blackmail". As he pointed out, in a letter to the Prime Minister of Canada at that time, "The economy of Ontario and of Canada is heavily dependent upon a healthy and modernized automobile industry and it is clear that we are in great need of this half-billion dollar facility which would create 2,600 jobs. Furthermore, the fact that incentive arrangements have been offered by the Federal Government for a General Motors plant to locate in Quebec is being well publicized in Ontario and it is felt only fair that the same terms of assistance be made available in this province where, even in many areas of Southern Ontario, unemployment is at least as high as it is in the Province of Quebec."

Report from Parliament

by William C. Scott MP

Prime Minister Trudeau's television speech on August 1st, claimed to be so important that it pre-empted scheduled programming on the two networks, has most Canadians wondering why he bothered.

It was such an important economic message to the country, then why didn't he propose something new in the way of economic initiatives instead of rehashing old and discarded economic promises?

If, as the Prime Minister said, he was giving us an update on the Bonn summit meeting, why did he wait until he had vacationed for two weeks in Morocco and then suddenly decide to throw together a mixed bag of broken promises and wild projections?

Since the speech the Conservative Opposition in Parliament, and many newspaper columnists as well, have unearthed Trudeau's speeches over the years, and they have shown that he has been making precisely the same promises since 1969.

On August 13th, 1969, Trudeau said in a public statement, "We'd be on the road to financial disaster if nothing was done to bring (federal) spending under control." Let us look at his record of getting spending under control.

The national budget for fiscal 1970 was 13.4 billion dollars. Trudeau forecast a budget of $17.5 billion for 1975. The actual budget for 1975 was 26.1 billion, an increase of 100 per cent. Since then the budget has spiralled almost out of control.

In the present fiscal year the national budget will be more than $2 billion of dollars. Since 1969 the national debt has increased from $31.2 billion in 1969 to a whopping 67.1 billion dollars in 1977. The deficit for fiscal 1977-78 will reach close to 12 billions of dollars.

Since Trudeau's past promises have not been matched by performance, we might well ask what the Prime Minister's real purpose was in making a nationally-televised speech that caught even his own departmental advisors by surprise.

Was it to announce his plans to convert the Post Office into a Crown corporation? If so, then the opportunity was lost. That was an announcement that should have been delayed until it could be made in Parliament. In fact, everything he said in his speech was of a nature that required prior announcement in Parliament, where it could be answered.

Or, as most people now think, was the Prime Minister making a pre-election speech, attempting to shore up a sagging personal image and make it appear that he is now serious about coming to grips with the multitude of serious national problems? This appears to be the case.

Twice in the past year the Prime Minister has delayed elections that appeared certain. Most political observers attribute these delays to a series of reverses in public opinion polls, and it would appear that he is now trying desperately to beef up his public image so that he can go to the polls in the Fall.

If Trudeau plans a Fall election it will be good news for most if not all Canadians. It is obvious that the present government in Ottawa is tired, and that they are bankrupt of ideas. They are no longer capable of governing or of making critical decisions. It is becoming more and more evident that they are simply trying to hang on.

One thing is clear following Trudeau's speech. He didn't count on it having negative effect on the economy. Immediately after the speech the Canadian dollar fell fractionally on the world markets, to below 88 cents against the American dollar. It is clear that Trudeau and his government have lost the confidence of the Canadian people and of foreign investors. Perhaps a federal general election is the only thing that will clear the air.

Trent-Severn News

The Trent-Severn Waterway Exhibit, on display at the observation level of the CN Tower in Toronto, has been held over until August 23.

The Waterway corridor exhibit, on display through the height of the summer months, will have a sizable audience. About one and a half million people visit the Tower each year.

The three dimensional relief model of the Waterway system has a particular fascination for the visitors. The model shows them where the Waterway is in the province and where Toronto is. At that elevation, geography becomes a bit bewildering.

CORTS Meeting at Fenelon Falls

On Saturday, August 19, there will be an Advisory Committee public meeting at the Recreation Center at John and Bond Streets, from 2 to 4 p.m., with an open house to view displays from 1:15.

The meeting will give an opportunity to voice reaction to interim land use guidelines and Green Paper proposals on water management, commercial development, land use, heritage conservation, public land management and pollution abatement in the CORTS Corridor.

For more information contact CORTS Secretariat at (705) 743-9311.

Water Control

Reservoir storage dropped only a little to 74.4% on August 8 as a result of rainfall and reduced draw for downstream requirements. On August 8, 1977, only 53.4% of the storage remained.

Flows from the reservoir rivers were 14.0 cubic metres per second (494 cfs) on the Gull and 3.89 cubic metres per second (137 cfs) on the Burnt on August 11 which are very close to their minima.

To give these flows some perspective it should be noted that in the highest recent spring runoff, in April 1976, the Gull River peaked at 80.7 cubic metres per second (285 cfs) and the Burnt River reached 191 cubic metres per second (6760 cfs). Present flows are very low in comparison.

During the week ending August 8, the net inflow to the basins was positive except for the area north of Halls Lake. This means rainfall was exceeding evaporation generally.

Kawartha levels are generally at or slightly above their navigation maxima. This slight surplus of water will be held until it is absorbed by evaporation before increases in reservoir flows are made.

Lake Simcoe-Couchiching is following its curve closely at 218.92 m on August 11.

Craft Talk

This week I would like to say a little about the selecting of knitting or crochet patterns. Usually it is the photograph of the finished model which first attracts your eye, this is good, but care should be taken with one or two other points.

Be sure to consult the finished size of garment which is clearly stated under the paragraph entitled "measurements". Knit the size nearest to your measurements.

Always use the wool or yarn stated in the material requirements. Garments have been especially designed for that particular wool or yarn, and if a substitute is made, different over-all appearance, texture of knitting and amounts required will result.

However, sometimes it is not possible to obtain the exact yarn, then substitute one that is the same type and weight. For instance a double knitting weight another double knitting weight, or a tweedy yarn for a tweedy yarn, and so on.

Always test your tension before commencing the actual garment. If you are getting more stitches to the inch than the pattern calls for, use one size larger needle. If you are not getting as many stitches as the tension states, you will have to try again with smaller needles.

If you are substituting a pattern stitch, make sure the one you are using will produce the same as the directions; this can be done, you may even need a change of needle here also to get the correct tension.

If adjustments are necessary as to the length, etc., work them out before you commence your knitting and mark them on your instruction sheet or in a notebook which you keep along with your work. This also provides a record for future reference.

If more than one size is given on the instruction sheet, it is a good idea to ring with a colored pencil the figures which apply to the size that you are knitting. If the work is left for any length of time, the size being knitted is clearly marked and there is no question as to what was done in the past.

As I have said, it is a good idea to have a notebook handy, then you can jot down just how many increases or decreases you have worked, etc.

Keep all labels from the wool as a record of the amount used, dye lot number etc. I collect them on a large safety pin for tidiness and reference.

This week's pattern No. 727 is a puppy dog made from oddments of material or felt. This adorable little pup will delight the heart of almost any small child and is so simple and easy to make. I'm sure there are a number of small fry on your gift giving list. They make great bazaar items too.

To obtain Pattern No. 727, send 75 cents along with a stamped self addressed return envelope to: Louisa Rush, Craft Talk, c/o Haliburton County Echo, Box 360, Haliburton, Ont. K0M 1S0

Gems of Truth

True Values

"Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment." Mathew 6.25.

Possibly the most dangerous doctrine of the modern day is "a man must eat." Is this really so? Have not millions of martyrs demonstrated the teaching of Jesus that there is something far more important than eating? Men say "a man has to live," and have forgotten that no matter how hard a man may try, the time will come when he can no longer continue the life that has been so dear to him. What then? Scripture truly states that "It is appointed unto man once to die," and this is the one thing that is inevitable and inescapable. Hebrews 9.27. Not only is that appointment going to be kept but also the consequences of it. With the exception of the generation that shall be alive at the Rapture of the Church, every human who is born is destined to die. Since death is thus a certainty, men should plan for it and make provision for what must follow.

What shall it avail us if we buy bread for seventy years or more, and then lose the soul that dwells in the body that the bread was meant to sustain? It is a fact that there have been many men and women who starved with cheerfulness, rather than compromise with evil to the loss of their own souls. There are possibly an equal number alive today who live in poverty and obscurity, who might be rich and famous if they would renounce their faith in Jesus Christ and serve the world and the devil, but they have the sense and the grace to discern that the world will not always remain and that the devil is only temporarily in possession of this world, and that it is better to suffer for Christ here and now and reign with Him hereafter, than to serve Satan now and be his subject forever.

Quite frequently one sees a thoughtless person who has been misguided, all decked out in finest costume and array, having acquired such by the misuse of the body it clothed. Then the fashions change and their dearly bought robes are cast aside, they had covered them for but a brief hour. Death finally wraps them, and all of us, in the same blanket of earth, and what then of the soul that has been cast away for the sake of decking the body?

Indeed it would be better to join the company of those of old who clothed themselves with the skins of animals, or sackcloth of the coarsest weave, than to lose our eternal covering for the sake of a passing fashion. For it ever remains true that the soul must be fed or die, the spirit also must be clothed upon, not unclothed. 2 Cor. 5.2-3. Rev. 3.18. The dead body shall rise again and all that may have been denied it here and now for Christ's sake, will be given to it a thousandfold in that day when Jesus returns to earth.

If Satan came to us and said, "I will give you fine and fancy food for ten years, and then you lose your life," we would instantly reject such an offer. However, he is very subtle and he seeks to attract us little by little from the Christian way of living, until, finally, he has separated us entirely from Christ, who is the true Source of Life. It will be a sad day of awakening that awaits every misguided soul who makes so fatal an exchange.

It is not for naught that the clarion call of "Awake thou that sleepest" rings out so clearly in the Ephesian letter to the Churches. Eph. 5.14. It is far better to refuse to pamper the body or yield to the subtle temptation to place the present above the future. In plain words, prize this life more than the one to come.

The call of Eternity is strong and apart from the written Word leaves nothing but uncertainty. Truth concerning the hereafter comes from the lips of Jesus Himself and He plainly taught that the less we spend in "conformity to the world," luxurious feasting included, the more we will have to use in feeding the poor and in doing those fruits of faith and love which receive eternal blessings. Luke 14.14.

OPP Report

The Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police report the following activity for the period from August 7 to 14.

During this time, 23 motor vehicle collisions were reported. Five of these were of a non-reportable nature, where the combined damage to both vehicles was less than $400.

Some 17 collisions were reportable, with damages being in excess of $400. One collision reported took place in the Huntsville OPP area and the information was relayed to that detachment.

Of the 22 motor vehicle collisions investigated by the Minden detachment, 12 persons received injuries and required medical attention.

There were 139 general occurrences investigated by the staff. Five break-ins were reported, as well as 16 thefts.

By Alex Stevenson

Stanhope voters may find themselves voting on the liquor question at the next municipal election. This comes about as a result of the action of the Liquor Board of Ontario in requiring a vote of sixty per cent or better in favour of the sale of spirits under a lounge license, or the cancellation of the special occasion permits in the township should the vote be less than sixty per cent in favour of outlets. Without the special events permit, much of what is done in the community will come to an end, for without the permits most fund raising efforts will be very much curtailed.

The writer enjoys a well run licensed lounge, but this way of getting public acceptance of outlets seems to be something close to blackmail. In townships like Stanhope, where there are no industries or corporate entities to turn to for financial support, dances with bars are a major fund raising source.

If the Liquor Board wants more outlets then let them go after them but don't force acceptance by taking away rights now enjoyed by the people. Furthermore the cost of special events permits and the extra levy on the price of liquor and beer leaves little room for complaint from the board from a financial point of view. Council will be acting on the matter at a special meeting to be held during August. Elvin Johnson, serving on the present Township Council, and with some years of experience on Council, has announced that he will run again in the November election. Elvin has been a member of the fire department since it was formed and also is a member of the Recreation Committee. Another member of the fire department who will run for election is Roger Woods. Roger resides in the Maple Lake area and will seek support for the position of Councilman.

Next Saturday, August 19, is the date of the Recreation Committee walk-a-thon and already participants can be seen on the roads getting ready for the walk. The committee is prepared to proceed with the work on the tennis courts (2) as soon as approval of the grant application is received from Culture and Recreation authorities. When this approval is received a meeting of tennis enthusiasts will be called and they will be invited to provide some input re: future tennis activities.

The July swimming course is now finished and the results indicate that it was a success. The original enrollment of 61 included a number on vacation and after departures there were still 54 enrolled. Of this number 41 were tested by instructors, Carolyn and Marilyn Kinsman and a Red Cross Examiner, and all 41 passed the test. Four others tried the test for the bronze and of this group two passed.

Of those not taking the tests for higher levels some were considered to be at high enough levels for their age, and it was thought inadvisable to subject them to the more strenuous tests for the higher levels.

Recently we made reference to the fact that a new family had moved into the former Sisson property on Highway 530. In recent years this property had been the home of the Harrington family who have moved to another area.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Council

Cecil Gibbons attended the regular meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden council last Wednesday, regarding repairs and renovations to his dock on 12 Mile Lake.

Council decided that Gibbons be directed to remove 20' from his dock constructed on the allowance in part of Lot 11, Concession X, Minden Twp. The 20' will be allowed to remain in use as a floating dock only, hence complying with the by-laws.

A questionnaire was received from the Haliburton County Social Planning Council proposing to form a county social service system for the Haliburton area. The Clerk was directed to advise that council is satisfied with the present operation of the system.

Les Fielding was present to request permission to construct a dock off County Rd.

#2 near the Old Ingoldsby Road. The matter was deferred pending receipt of additional information.

A letter from the Ministry of the Environment's, Legal Services Branch advised of alternatives that Council could pursue in an effort to control noise. Council, being concerned as to why the 1976 by-law had not yet been approved, directed the Clerk to contact the Ministry to determine when approval might be forthcoming.

Harry Totty approached council requesting permission to construct an addition to his cottage which is presently constructed on the original municipal road allowance. Council could not direct the By-law Enf. Officer to issue a building permit as the application contravenes the by-laws.

W. Obee, Provisional

County of Haliburton engineer was present to review the specifications and plans for the addition to the municipal garage.

Tenders will be called for a two-bay addition to the P.W.D. garage pursuant to specifications provided by the Provisional County of Haliburton. Tenders will close August 30 at 4:00 p.m.

A letter received from W.D. Ham of M.T.C. regarding the installation of a new and larger culvert in the causeway close to the island.

Dave Bickerton attended Council to deliver a petition to reduce the approved speed limit from 35 m.p.h. to 20 m.p.h.

Council decided to request M.T.C. to erect a "Stop Ahead" sign in advance of the intersection of Highway #35 and Horseshoe Lake Road No. 2.

The petition received from the Horseshoe Lake Property Owner's Assoc. requesting the speed limit to be reduced on the Horseshoe Lake Rd. will be submitted to M.T.C.

for their consideration.

A letter was received from Mrs. E. Eastman advising Council of the dates building permits were issued for the respective buildings.

The invoice of Stuart & Cruikshank was approved for payment in the proper appropriation.

Deac Jackson, Fire Chief, attended council to discuss the possibility of the Kinetite Club using the firehall for a flea market in the event of inclement weather.

Norland Notebook

by Barbara Maunder

On Saturday, August 5, Shadow Lakes Cottagers' Association held its annual meeting in the Norland Community Hall with about 50 members present. President Tony Keith chaired the meeting while Secretary-Treasurer, John Gilmour recorded the minutes and collected membership dues. Reeve Maurice Watson and Deputy-Reeve, Doris Winchester, from Somerville Township were present as was Eric Voutier representing Townships of Laxton, Digby and Longford. The cottagers' association is in the unenviable position of having cottagers living in three different townships on Shadow Lake - Bexley, Somerville and the combined townships of Laxton, Digby and Longford. During part of the meeting, cottagers questioned and showed their concern to Councillor Eric Voutier over the fact that a by-law passed in 1972 prohibiting the establishment of more trailer parks in Laxton Township, had been amended this past year and council had allowed further expansion. Shadow Lakes Cottagers Association is responsible for the clearly marked access road numbers on the east and west sides of Shadow Lake. There are 53 of these road identification signs to facilitate emergency services and visitors. The even numbers are on the east side of the lake and the odd numbers are on the west side. Special thanks to Morris Park and those who worked with him to organize these signs. The Association also marks underwater hazards in the lakes and river and has provided docks at Coboconk and Norland.

We have a very active and enthusiastic group of baseball players in our Norland Athletic Club and if anyone is interested in watching a ball game, any night of the week and all day Sunday, weather permitting, there is a ball game being played in Ward Park just north of Norland on Highway 35. The ladies play ball on Sunday, Monday and Thursday evenings while the men are up to bat. Saturday evenings and during the day on Sundays. These times are subject to change because of tournaments. The Senior ladies team will be competing in a ball tournament the weekend of August 19 and 20 in Haliburton beginning at 10:30 a.m. each day. I'm sure that they would appreciate your support and interest in the team by attending this competition on one or both days.

Dale Davey and her helpers Anne Patullo, Margaret Quinn and Lorie McEwan should be commended for their excellent efforts in raising over $120.00 in their muscular dystrophy backyard carnival on Saturday, August 5. They appreciate and thank everyone who helped with this successful venture for a very worthwhile cause.

I was saddened to hear this week of the passing of Mrs.

Ada Bissonette (formerly Mrs. Caesar) on Sunday, August 5 in Toronto. Ada had been a cottager of long standing on Shadow Lake and will be missed by her many friends in the Norland area. It is most unfortunate to learn, too, that her son, John Caesar, is gravely ill in a Toronto hospital. Our sincere sympathy to all members of the family at this sorrowful time.

All council members were present at the meeting on Tuesday August 1 at 7:20 p.m. A motion was passed that the shed on Lot 3, Plan 455 was to be moved to conform with required set back of 15 feet but the boathouse to remain in its existing location. The shed to be relocated prior to completion of the sale of property by Mr. and Mrs. McGregor. Wm. Payne to be issued a permit to enclose his veranda providing he signs an affidavit absolving the municipality of all future legal responsibility. Road Superintendent and the Building Inspector are to be notified in writing that they are not to use township equipment for personal use.

Douglas Morrison discussed with Council a proposed development on Lot 1, Conc. VIII, Laxton. A letter from J.E. Cameron was to be entered in the minutes. This letter referred to the fact that the Township Truck had been used by the Road Superintendent and the Building Inspector for personal use and if disciplinary action was not taken immediately, the matter would be referred to municipal engineer of the M.T.C. at Port Hope. Office to be closed for a day selected by the Clerk so that he may supervise the installation of water mains on west side of highway. Severance application, B-161-78, Watson Puterbaugh, for Part of Lot 1, Conc. XI, Laxton was approved. Mrs. Brightman is to be notified that council will hold its original offer and would like a representative to attend council's next meeting on September 5 to discuss future plans of the road. $200 is to be spent on gravel for North Shore cottagers road.

The installation of new water line has now been completed on the west side of Highway 35 and it runs from Marvin Watson's property to Kreppner's Village Wool and Craft Shop. This line also supplies water to the Township Firehall which will make it easier for refilling the tanks on the fire trucks.

Maple Lake News

by Ada Gibbs

Mr. & Mrs. Fred McCann of Orangeville are visiting relatives and friends in our area for a few days.

We, of St. Peter's congregation, are happy to see Stan Ashman back on the restoration work at the church. Let's hope the beautiful weather continues to aid Stan's progress.

Miss F. Chown of St. Thomas is spending a few weeks at the lake with her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Dawson.

Every week is a busy one at the Stanhope Library, what with daily book meetings of various kinds, movies and the weekly story hour on Thursday mornings, but this week there was a puppet show which all children love. These shows are always well attended but this particular one had a full house - 80 being present including very few parents. I believe the movies were to continue until the middle of August, so there's likely to be just one more.

Mr. & Mrs. Gordon Davidson of Peterborough called on friends near Beech Lake last Sunday.

Afternoon tea was served at Hyland Crest Home last Thursday by some of the St. Peter's ladies.

For a few days last week Mr. & Mrs. John Dyer of Engadine, Michigan were enjoying a reunion with John & Mary Dyer here. At present Mrs. Lundy and Valerie of Oshawa are enjoying our beautiful weather with them.

I believe Moss Davis had a most unfortunate accident a short time ago. While taking a shower, preparatory to attending a special family occasion, Moss accidentally stepped on the soap. Of course we know what happened next. Moss took a skid, and down he went, striking his head on the tub fixtures. The cut required several stitches.

The Fred Prentices of Bridgenorth are spending a few days around the lake.

Congratulations to Minnie Sisson who celebrated another birthday last Tuesday. Besides being invited out for dinner, Minnie and Leigh had several callers, just dropping in to wish Minnie the best of everything.

Congratulations also, to Mrs. Winnifred Johnson, who, after surgery for eye trouble, and months of worry,

I said last week I hoped to have this column back to normal by now; but as I am not there myself, neither is the column. When one finds that August is half gone you think of that verse:

Autumn to winter, winter into spring,
Spring into summer, summer into fall;

So rolls the changing year, and so we change;

Motion so swift, we know not that we move.

To me that is the way the year is travelling.

Part of the grass got cut last week and this next few days the rest of the work will be caught up, I hope. This heat is great if one can just sit around and relax. I was talking by phone to our folks in the east and they had rain Sunday, but when it cleared up, the weather was the same as ours. Enjoy it while you can, for all too soon we will be bundling up to keep warm.

Saturday afternoon after the opening ceremonies were over at the County Fair, it was interesting to note that the prize for the oldest lady at the fair went to Mrs. Mildred Herbert, 90 years young; the oldest man was Mr. Tom Hoyle, 88 years young; and the longest married couple were Mr. and Mrs. Fred who have been 57 years in togetherness.

We all are very sorry to hear of Brian Anderson being so badly burned last week and having to be rushed to Well-lesley Hospital in Toronto, where he will be receiving treatment for nearly two months.

Congratulations to Yvonne Beaucage who entered articles at Toronto Exhibition this year for the first time. Yvonne put two articles in the Ex. and her leather vest won 1st prize; the Indian Dressed Doll won 3rd prize.

Having missed Jim Elders wave when he was at the ambulance bay, I inquired about him and found that he was in Sunnybrook Hospital, Toronto. I'm sure all that are in hospitals would like to know their friends wish them well, and cards do make such a difference when you are ill.

Did you visit the First Aid Station at the County Fair? If you did you would see the "Spirit of Hope" bus parked beside it. The Spirit of Hope is a permanent fixture for the county. It is based at Haliburton and is ready for action all the time throughout the county. You know the ambulances are overworked all the time, but it is great to know there is also the "Spirit of Hope."

If you have missed Ivan Harrison he had the misfortune to break his hip and is in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay. don't forget the cards.

weekend and Minden fair is in progress today and a number from here are up in Minden enjoying the sights and sounds.

The winners in the Fireman's Demolition Derby were as follows: First prize of $100 plus a trophy from Manley Motors of Lindsay went to a car owned by Cliff Suggitt - driven by Mr. Dave Conrade. Second Prize of $50 to Kawartha Garage, driven by Jim Hannivan. Third Prize of $25 went to Robbie Smales.

Winners of the ladies class went to: First Prize of $20 to Mrs. Mary Jo Grant. Second Prize of $10 to Mrs. Dave Conrade. Third Prize of $5 to Miss Susanne Barbour. The firemen were thrilled with the turnout for the derby. The firemen will use the money for more life saving equipment for the fire department.

Mr. & Mrs. Lavern Sisson of Elizabeth St. are on a summer holiday to Alaska and the north and the west coast.

Mr. & Mrs. Frank Gibson of Water St. are on a holiday to Moosehead.

The ACW of Christ Church Anglican, held a very successful sale on the lawn last Saturday. Buyers snapped up the items, all of which were donated articles. The proceeds go to renovating the rectory. The ladies are an ambitious group as they are planning a bake sale to be held on the main street for next Saturday August 19. Proceeds again are for renovating of the rectory.

Over 600 people sat down to a smorgasbord meal at the Legion Hall last week. The girls worked hard and were very delighted with the results. What a lot of work!

There was a very successful bake sale held last Saturday in front of North's Decorating. The proceeds, some $160 were for Shiloh Christian Centre. A large number also attended the auction sale at Shiloh Christian Centre on Wednesday last.

The past week, as usual has been busy but never boring. I, along with Dorothy Bain, Edith Johnson and Lola Sims, all of Haliburton and Madeleine Woods of Cardiff attended the Avon "Jamboree" at Hotel Toronto in Toronto on Wednesday. We enjoyed dinner at Sai Woo on Dundas Street before the jamboree and all in all had an enjoyable day. I have been spending time with a pen-pal and her family from Williamsburg, Pa. who are at a cottage just north of town. They are ardent fishermen so I've been visiting in the afternoon when they are not out in the boat.

Thursday night we took them on a tour of Fenelon Falls, watched boats go through the locks, then on to Bobcaygeon, back to Kinmount and across the Davis Lake road where we promised our visitors we'd see a real live bear at the dump. When we reached the dump, we met Marj and Harv Farrow from Coboconk, already parked waiting on the bears appearance. Another car with children drove in.

We waited patiently and watched a year old cub come right up close, find a choice piece of garbage then saunter to the back of the dump to enjoy his "find". We stood right at the edge of the dump and took pictures of the little guy. It was the first time that our American friends had seen a bear "at large" and were delighted. We waited for the larger bears to appear but our patience wore thin as the darkness descended and mosquitos beat us out. Yesterday (Friday) afternoon I drove our friends to Minden and Haliburton, visited the Skyline Park and took some pictures. Had to hurry home for early supper, guests were coming but we all had a wonderful day enjoying scenery and weather at its best.

Pat Angiers was thrilled to catch a big 44", 19 lb. muskie in Head Lake last week. It all goes to prove that fishermen have the best of fishing right here at home. It was a happy occasion for Pat. A sad event, a few days later was the sudden death of his brother, Sandy Angiers. To Lil, Sandy's wife, and to the brothers and sisters, our deepest sympathy.

If you are a reader of "Outdoor Life", the August issue has the whole story on the death of the boys in Algonquin Park, in May. The boys were killed by a black bear. The game warden Lorne O'Brien who shot the bear of course was a Norland resident in his early years and Lorne's picture accompanies the grieve story. Very sad story but worth reading if you are especially a camper. Never trust bears!

Old time fiddlers enthusiasts enjoyed last weekend at Bobcaygeon and this weekend are seeing and hearing more of the same at Shelburne.

There is a fair every weekend from now through to fall. The Sulton Horse Show and fair is in full swing this

It is too bad that the Old Time fiddler Contest was on at Shelburne on the weekend. Those attending from this area were: The Garth Horsleys, The Lyman Coxes, Ken Coxes, Wayne Coxes, Scott Gartschors, Weldon Poppes, Lionel Davis, Nelson Johnsons, Raymond Johnsons.

Mrs. Nora Spence of Appleton and the Earl Halls of Toronto visited with Mr. & Mrs. Taylor Kernohan last week.

The Fair dance was excellent and well attended last Saturday evening. Had a chat with Con Archer and if you are like me you may have wondered why he seemed so familiar. Here is the secret; at one time he worked in Minden.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Deacon are home after a nice visit with daughter Pat and son-in-law Rick Lancaster in Calgary, Alta.

I have a question to ask? For the first time in years I watched the parade last Saturday at the County Fair. O.K., there were two townships who entered floats in the best township float (County of Haliburton). Now I know there are more than two townships in this county, so here is the question, where were the rest of them? Surely they did not get lost? This county should have more floats in the county fair. There are enough young folk to do the decorating if the councillors have not got the time; so next year let us see more response from the municipalities!

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Robinson had as guests over the weekend; Mr. and Mrs. Em Voicoy of Gamebridge; Bracey Robinson of London, and Bill Hart of Woodstock.

Mrs. Vera Cowan is visiting the Jack Cowans at Phepston, and attended a Cowan wedding at Penetang recently.

The lady representative for District 4 fairs threw us a bouquet on Sunday, by saying that this was the nicest grounds in the district. It was level, open and the wind could come from all directions that is if there was a breeze! Hopefully the travelling from one building will be easier next year as the cart should be ready!

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Deacon attended the MacFadyen

Haliburton Highlights by Creighton Fair

The Kinsmen Club of Haliburton told us last week that a total of $80,000. worth of merchandise was sold at the Highland Vacation and Home Show held in Haliburton in June by those who participated in this annual event.

Buck Baker has made some extensive improvements to the exterior of his barber shop on the main street. It's really changed the appearance of the building.

"Instead of bemoaning the fact that we can't have all that we want," one of the newest sayings goes, "Many of us should be thankful we don't get all we deserve." We have now reached the midway point of August and the summer season will soon be drawing to a close. It seems that everyone here in Haliburton County are once again bracing themselves for what they call a hard winter ahead. Some people are afraid that many will be unemployed this winter but the question seems to remain just how much work have the local contractors got ahead of them. These local contractors are the men who employ local help and the more work they have the better off we all will be. We like to look on the sunny side of things and hope that something will come up to give a job to all those who are willing to work. Winter business as far as tourism is concerned seems to be getting better each year and we hope that it continues. We are only fooling ourselves if we think that we can survive here in Haliburton on two months summer trade. We must always be on the lookout for small industry, more promotion for winter tourist business if we are to have a balanced all year round economy. In one way or the other we must try to provide jobs for those who are seeking employment.

From what we can learn we really had luck on our side this summer. It was just a year ago that we were in trouble with low water levels in the lakes. Some of the cottagers that we have been talking with tell us that this year it's a different ball game and that the water levels are back to normal. This is really good news for the cottagers and local people alike.

Many local people as well as visitors to our village are very upset to see the public washrooms all locked up. We must admit that we are too. In the past they have been closed most of the time due to vandalism and now apparently they have run into a water problem. I think it is either a case of opening them up again or closing them down for good.

The brand new Haliburton IGA store opened its doors for business on Thursday morning last and hundreds of people passed through the doors to shop and to look over the new facilities. This new store with plenty of room for parking in front of the building certainly adds some class to the main street.

The first day of filming of the movie "Summer Camp" near Haliburton went ahead successfully recently and everyone involved in the scenes were really excited about being in the movies. Several Haliburton youths and adults have already been signed to appear in various scenes in the film but the hunt continues for more kids and adults needed for the film. Anyone interested in auditioning for a part in the film should contact Linda Beachli at 457-2973 or Don Goldberg on location at 457-1984.

For all you people who love to go to an Auction Sale you will have your opportunity this coming Saturday, August 19th at the residence of Leslie Prentice, Bobcaygeon Rd. N., in Minden. The sale starts at 12:30 p.m. Everything from a chesterfield to a gas lawn mower will be auctioned off. Doug Pritchard of Minden will be the Auctioneer.

All those girls sporting new jackets around town are members of the Haliburton ladies softball team. They were presented with their new jackets recently just before taking to the field to play Gooderham.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Council meeting

Council agreed to donate the Firehall to the Minden Kinette Club to hold a Flea Market in September, 1978, provided the township is not held responsible for any losses or damages, and the building and grounds left in a clean and tidy condition.

Jackson was also authorized to obtain an estimate on the cost of installing fans in the bay and eavestroughing and heat cord on the parking lot side of the firehall.

A letter was received from R.D. Hickey, Ministry of Health, confirming his approval of an over-expenditure, at year end, to allow a revised pay schedule for ambulance personnel.

An application was received from Luis Alvarez in Concession II, Lots 8 and 9, Anson Twp. to construct either a bridge or a causeway to an island in Bob Lake.

The application was refused by council on the basis that it is navigable waterway and as such shall not be obstructed.

Wayne Terry in part of Lot 30, Concession X, Minden Twp. was given permission to fill his shore subject to the provisions of by-law 76-68, and the sketch enclosed with his application. Permission must also be obtained from the various agencies involved.

A letter was received from the Project Co-ordination Branch of the Ministry of the Environment regarding restoration problems on the various streets. The Clerk was directed to advise that the township use only light trucks on Anson Street and any damages involved were not the fault of the municipality.

The following accounts were approved for payment: General - $16,085.82; Water - $1,434.53.

P.W.D. accounts for the month of July were approved for payment in the amount of $52,066.85.

The financial report to the end of June 1978 prepared by the Clerk-Treasurer pursuant to Section 222 of The Municipal Act, was approved.

A letter was received from N. Pillsworth regarding a dangerous curve on N. Water Street.

Helen Yake having successfully served the required six month probationary period will be considered permanent staff and her rate of pay increased 35 cents per hour.

The Black River flow is now down to 1.5 cubic metres per second (53 cfs).

In April 1976, Black River peaked at 200 cubic metres per second (7050 cfs). Since records were kept in 1915 this river has varied widely from a low of 0.5 cubic metres per second (18 cfs) on September 2, 1920 to a high of 229 cubic metres per second (8080 cfs) on April 10, 1928. Though the terrain is similar to that of the Gull Basin the wider fluctuation generally results from lack of lake storage sites.

Boat and motor are stolen

A boat and motor with a combined value of $800 was taken from the shoreline of a cottage of Twelve Mile Lake on Monday.

Douglas Seath told police he left the boat on the shoreline and that it disappeared during the day.

reunion at Markham last Saturday.

The Baseball Tournament at the county fair was started last year, but is proving to be a valuable asset. This year there were 10 teams entered and on Saturday they played off. Sunday was the finals and the Minden team went all the way. By the time of the last game they had gotten

Your correspondent is going tripping again for a couple of weeks. Sorry to leave my readers, but time flies, you know, and soon I'll be back on the job again.

Mr. Ralph Joyce accompanied by Mrs. Violet Smith journeyed through some of the Eastern United States recently. While away they visited in Lodi, N.J., and in Canton, N.Y., and were taken on a tour of New York City. Summer guests with Vi Smith have been Mr. & Mrs. Jack Deller, and Dorothy Sanguin of Toronto, and also Margaret Kaminski and John Lakonis of Melvindale, Michigan.

with "Grandpa" Harold Alton. Master Robbie King of Lindsay and friend Craig of Lindsay are visiting "Grandma", Mrs. Flo Cruickshanks.

It's ideal summer weather and the big boat operators are coming into town. The government docks are lined with house boats, which tie up floor over night and weekends. So nice to see so many beautiful boats. Summer goes so fast. With the Toronto C.N.E. opening right away, it's a sure indication that school days are not far away so get out in the great outdoors and enjoy it.

their second wind and won by a score of 9-1.

Boy, who says there is not talent in this county? I heard part of the amateur program on Sunday and they were terrific. The winners will be printed later as will be all winners, some each week as they are compiled. It takes time.

One highlight on Sunday afternoon was the presentation of a "Service Award" to Mr. Les Prentice. Les has moved to Lindsay now, but he and Nina came back for the last day of the County Fair.

Man is charged

A Toronto man has been charged with four offences after he was apprehended in the process of stealing a canoe last Tuesday evening.

O.P.P. Constables Maher and Bibby found the suspect attempting to remove the canoe from a residence on south Water Street in Minden. After further investigation, it was discovered that the suspect had also stolen a small quantity of food from Mike's Milk some days before and also had caused wilful damage to a motorcycle.

Charged with theft over and under $200, as well as causing wilful damage, and possession of a weapon harmful to the public is Rene Derome.

Accident

A Haliburton man was treated for minor injuries after his northbound vehicle moved to the right for other traffic, left the roadway, and struck a hydro pole, last Tuesday night.

Michael Irwin, 22, was charged with failing to wear a seatbelt after the accident which occurred on Kashaga Dr. He was taken to Haliburton Red Cross hospital and treated there for undetermined injuries.

This award was presented by the president of the Agricultural Society, Mrs. Loretta Nesbitt, and Mr. Lloyd Johnson made the commentary. Les has been a member of the Agricultural Society for more years than I can mention, and in all that time he has never missed a fair. He has been a hard worker, but as I have said before, a few cannot do all the work. Believe me there is plenty to do and we are not getting younger, in fact we are getting older and need more help from everyone. It is a county fair and even if some exhibits were down, some were up. The work getting ready for it is becoming too much for some; so please come out to the meetings and do help.

As the proof reader will notice I'm tired so will sign off for now.

Adios and take care now.

Letters to the Editor

Hydro agrees to use reasonable diligence in providing a regular and uninterrupted supply of power.

If one takes our total number of customers in Minden Area and considers that each customer is served 24 hours per day for 365 days of the year, then divides the interruption hours by this figure we find that each customer in this area could expect to have service 99.99958% of the time.

In Mr. Easton's case, Ontario Hydro built a line to provide service to his Red and White Store in Haliburton. This work was completed on June 15, 1977 at no cost to him. Customers had to be interrupted to complete this work during normal working hours and no complaints were received. Mr. Easton's store was connected through a bank of three 25kVA transformers on June 16, 1977.

On May 29, 1978, the owners of the new I.G.A. Store in Haliburton signed applications for three-phase power. This service would come from the same transformer bank serving the Red and White Store. New 75kVA transformers were ordered for the combined service capacity required.

On July 11, 1978, our Service Supervisor called Mr. Easton and asked him what day would be most suitable for our crew to change over the bank of transformers. Mr. Easton suggested that the changeover take place at 6:30 in the morning, before his store opened. He was told that this suggestion would have to be approved by myself.

Ontario Hydro's normal work hours are from 08:00 to 17:00 hours. These are the "reasonable hours" referred to in the customer contract. To follow any other course would have added additional costs to this service that would have had to be borne by all customers of our system. The average time to change over a bank of this type would be an hour and one-half to two hours. My cost benefit analysis simply could not justify such a course of action, having due regard for the implication to all customers in Minden area.

On July 10, 1978, the new I.G.A. Store was connected to the existing transformer bank without interruption of power. This provided temporary power to the new store for testing purposes.

On August 1, 1978, we were advised that the new store had their equipment ready for testing and in fact had connected to the temporary service. This we recognized would overload the existing transformer bank.

On August 1, 1978, our Service Assistant phoned Mr. Easton and explained the situation. He was told that the work would be done during normal working hours and was asked which day would suit him the best. Mr. Easton answered that he didn't want it done through normal working hours, but if it had to be done then one day was as bad as another. He also stated that he was going to lose $6,000.00 for every hour the power was off.

This information was discussed with myself and our Line Supervisors and a decision was made to change the bank the next day. Mr. Easton was contacted immediately and given this information.

The next morning, a three man crew with a Radial Boom Derrick truck (R.B.D.) was assigned this task. They loaded the three 75kVA transformers onto the truck and travelled to Haliburton.

At the job site, a small privately owned truck parked under the transformer pole, had to be moved before the changeover could be started.

When the crew was ready for their interruption they were held up again, on Mr. Easton's request, while he went looking for a manual calculator. Finally we were able to have the power off at 11:26 hours.

The three man R.B.D. crew, who had been joined by a two man bucket truck crew to speed up the changeover, lowered the three 25kVA transformers (each of which weighs 700-800 lbs.). They replaced the transformer leads and service connections and restored power at 12:39 hours. Interruption time was 73 minutes.

I personally was on the job site with the crew to watch the proceedings. During this time Mr. Easton expressed his criticism of Ontario Hydro's service to the community at large. It was during this time that I made the observation that if his business was so sensitive to an interruption of service that perhaps he should consider some type of stand-by generation. I explained again that Ontario Hydro could not guarantee uninterrupted service.

I cited as an example, the twister type wind storm that had passed through this area on the evening of July 26, 1978. It toppled countless trees onto our lines and area staff worked night and day restoring power. Some customers were off for 18 to 20 hours and this situation could occur again.

My views of this situation, which are supported by our Regional Office and our Head Office is that Mr. Easton was treated fairly and in accordance with our customer interruption procedures. The changeover of the transformers was performed as expeditiously as possible.

Minden Area of Ontario Hydro serves 13,424 customers. We have 800 miles of rural line, 80 miles of 44kV line and 168 miles of 230kV tower lines to maintain. We have a staff of 53 people who are highly trained and dedicated to serving our customers. One measure of their success is in the level of service security provided in Minden Area, which is as high as anywhere in the Province.

I hope this has provided the other side of the story.

Yours truly,
H. D. Cambell
Manager, Minden Area

ed, and mined, and turned into vessels and shapes and pieces that will delight and enhance life for many years.

England had one in the late 16th century, when Marlowe and Ben Johnson and Will Shakespeare served as lucid, brilliant witnesses to the vagaries, foibles, and magnificence of the human species.

Russia had one in the 19th century, with Tolstoy, Chekhov, Dostoevsky and a dozen others.

America had its golden years in this century, with Willa Cather, Steinbeck, Dreiser, Hemingway, Sandburg, Frost and a host of smaller fish cruising along in their wake.

A golden age in writing is not something planned. It cannot even be foreseen. It can only be backseen. It's a seemingly spontaneous outburst of literary fireworks, for which there seems no provocation.

O.K. End of thesis. But, as I so seldom do anything useful in this column except expose the darker side of our national psyche - crazy wives, rotten kids, bewildered politicians - perhaps today I can render a service.

A little digression. I teach a Grade 13 course in contemporary literature. First term, all Canadian; second term, all American; third term, all British. At the end of this year, I had the kids write an assessment of the course; no names, no pack drill. About 80 per cent of them said the Canadian section was the best, that they'd become acquainted for the first time with great Canadian writing, and that it should be extended for the full year. This was after meeting perhaps 20 Canadian writers, in print. What does that tell you?

First, our own children don't know our own writers. Second, their parents don't have any Canadian books in the house. Third, Canadian publishers are lousy promoters. End of digression. It's summertime, time for reading. Time for my public service bit.

If you can take your eyes for a moment off the golden shoulders of all those golden girls, check this list, when next you decide to pick up a paperback novel. If the store doesn't have it, demand why, hotly.

If you like Westerners, anything by: Jack Hodgins, Paul St. Pierre, W. O. Mitchell, Robert Kroetsch, Rudy Wiebe, Margaret Laurence. Every one is a genuine artist, and I've missed others.

The book will cost you a little more than that porno U.S. novel with the cover of a girl being raped and whipped while she's stuffing pills

25. NOTICES The Ministry of Health has reallocated the present supply of Polio Vaccine to the eight Health Units centering on London were the few cases of Poliomyelitis are located. Therefore, the immunization programme for the remainder of the Province is restricted to those 18 years of age or younger. It is with regret that the Halliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit must cancel its special Polio Immunization Clinics and will be unable to replenish the stock of Vaccine in the hands of the private Physicians for the time being. However, every effort will be made to supply the Doctors first with whatever amount of Vaccine becomes available. Any person under 18 who has never had any Vaccination against Polio should contact his family Doctor. The family Doctors are asked to co-operate by using whatever vaccine they have or receive in the near future on this age group only. Those students born in 1963 or 1968 are due for a booster but are well protected and can wait for their booster at the normal time of the school programme. The family Doctors will be supplied to the best of our ability from time to time as we obtain more vaccine. Dr. D. E. Mikel Medical Officer of Health CA/16

Board Meets

The Board of Directors of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce will be meeting at the Haliburton School of Fine Arts Lakeview Centre on Wednesday August 23rd at 7:30. Anyone wishing to have items placed on the agenda is invited to contact the Chamber office prior to the meeting.

Late Flash -- More Maps

Glen Campbell (The Haliburton Map Company) just dropped in a supply of maps covering Carnarvon Area (Mountain, Horseshoe, Twelve Mile and Boshkung Lakes) and Haliburton Lake. These areas were much in demand in our booth at the County Fair so we expect many of you will want to drop into the Chamber office for one covering your area. Glen also tells us he has distributed many of the maps locally in stores and Marinas, so check also for a supply in your immediate area.
